Bartram, John, 1699-1777; botanist.

To Cadwallader Colden.

[Written from?] Sends him some plum, apricot, and peach stones which he hopes will grow. Has not had much success with the Spanish chestnuts, nor with the French walnuts. Hopes to be at Catskill the next year and will inform him of the route. Comments on the possibilities of the Philosophical Society and hopes that more people will become interested. Classes humanity generally as concerned with making money, spending it, or with laboring to earn enough to keep from perishing. Is obliged for the little book which he sent. Once had great faith in tar water but has seen how ineffective it is in the small pox cases. Finds the Bishop's works too abstruse. Suffered from an injury from the kick of his horse and took nothing but the oil of turpentine until he was cured of the pain. A [redacted] 3p. 12 x 7 1/4 in.

"New York. Is much upset by "the discord which has arisen among our Brethren in Massachusetts." J. Leavitt plans to publish in the Emancipator "an exact fac-simile of the first number of the Liberator," probably to show how far it has departed from its original purposes. Has for a long time feared the "disorganizing effects" of the introduction of topics not relevant to the Anti-Slavery course. "I cannot admit that our Anti Slavery Brethren should oppose us only because we are humble Preachers." Discusses the treatment of the Clerical Appeal in the Liberator. Objects to the stubbornness of some of the Abolitionists who are trying to force the adoption of "d [redacted] and measures altogether severed from the Abolition of [redacted] ery." A. A. Phelps's "sneers and insinuations" against W.L.G. injure the cause. Objects to the publication of the Abolitionist.

To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman

No.14

«Boston?»: The writer explains that he wrote the enclosed letter the previous evening in order to "give definite utterance to my ideas of the present position of the Unitarians" whom he believes to be where he was six years ago. "I do not wish that the sentiments I had then should meet with any mercy." Hopes there will be some protest in the Liberator.

"No pl." In respect to the articles from Paris, the writer thinks that his friend Joseph Severny (?) would carry out the addressee's wish. The writer explains that he wrote his recent letter "as merely suggestive of certain sentiments that might influence those who would be abolitionists," and that it was not intended for the public.

e ? a Olivia (the writer's wife) desires him to ask the addressee "to take her name from the list of subscribers as managers to the fair." She has long "considered it a mere farce to appear to be helping when she did not." The writer regrets her determination, although he thinks that she has the good of the cause as much at heart as ever.

«Boston» Criticizes the tenor of the speeches at a recent meeting of Unitarians in respect to their "self-complacency". Objects to the idea implied that the addressee and those who were with her "in the trial hour of fierce attacks from the mob, may now step aside and that the Unitarians and others who do not wish to be trammelled by Societies, may take the standard & bear it on to victory. I believe the Unitarians, as a body, are as rotten as ever upon the subject..." The writer confesses with remorse that he was not one of the early pioneers, and analyzes the motives that restrained him. Quotes Dr. Charles T.C. Follen, who told him: "I could not find it in my conscience to  away from those who were •Near Murfreesboro: The writer has only lately looked upon Slavery as a crime, and wonders how he lived so long so morally obtuse. The writer's wife has always been an Abolitionist, but he did not know it until within the last three years. Met a man who three years before owned 60 slaves, but always considered slave-holding wrong. Considering the continued exploitation of the negro, the writer asks what his status shall be. "A large rebel invasion threatening Gen. Sherman's rear & communications" has caused alarm for ten days, but Gen. N. B.
